Designing Prom Decorations

Midnight Metropolitan Is Prom Theme

Two Sessions To Be Held This Summer

A recent college bulletin announced two summer school sessions for the coming season, the first to start June 12 and continue to July 21, and the second to start July 22 and continue to August 25. As usual, the first session offers the widest choice of courses and the greatest number of co-curricular activities.

The new air conditioned library will be open for study during the summer. Another feature of the summer session will be the maintenance of a rural training school at Homer.

Henry Burton Plays For Unique Party

Henry Burton's orchestra furnished the music for the all-college dateless party held on April 22. The party, sponsored by the Country Life Club, was unique in its entertainment program. A schottische dance which turned out to be an elimination contest provided much merriment. Margaret Finkelburg and Arden Burleigh won first prize. Garld Smith and Howard Brokken placed second.

There was also a floor show and a broom cut-in dance. The fact that both men and women were requested to wear sport clothes and jitter-bug shoes added to the general spirit of informality.

Play Contest Won By Red Wing

Four high schools competed in the one-act play contest sponsored by the Wenonah Players at the college on Saturday, April 1. Red Wing's entry "Sod" won first place and the trophy, which is presented each year to the winning school.

Schools participating in the contest were Lewiston, last year's winner, Pine Island, Red Wing, and Hastings high schools.

Ruth Koenig, Winona, was general chairman for the event.

Fair Motifs Used; Music by Cotier

"Midnight Metropolitan" will be the name of the annual spring prom to be held May 6th in the college gymnasium. The theme is a modern skyscraper scene with World's Fair motifs. Music will be provided by Frank Cotier's orchestra of St. Paul.

The dance floor is the roof garden of a tall skyscraper in the heart of the "downtown" area overlooking a harbor. The walls are scenes of the skyline in perspective on a dark background. The ceiling is the home of myriads of twinkling stars catching and reflecting the light of spotlights used as beacons.

The following committees are in charge of directing the work:

General Chairman, Marian Bosshardt; Decorating Chairman, Sylvia Davidson; Assistants, William Franzman, Elaine Wildegrube, Dorothy Skalicky, Domitilla Molloy; Business Chairman, Beverly Coe; Co-ordinator, Rosa Moehring; Mechanics, James Davidson, Norman Fjetland, Caryl Priestersbach, Charles Libby; Invitations, Donitza Lumovich; Programs, Kathryn Haas.

Guidance Clinic Provides Ideas, Instruction

An opportunity for an exchange of ideas in the field of guidance work being done in the high schools in this area was one of the aims of the Guidance Clinic held at W.S.T.C. on March 31, 1939. The second aim was instruction. Various phases of a coordinative program of guidance work being introduced in the progressive schools was new to some of the superintendents.

Mr. G. F. Varner, St. Paul, the principal speaker was well liked by the conference. He has been invited to be a speaker at the S.E.M.E.A. meeting.

The conference was planned by the Personal Committee, of which Mr. MacDonald is the chairman. Mr. Owens was co-chairman.

Tour Registrations Over Half Filled

With over half of the places taken for the tour there is every indication that the goal of eighty will easily be filled. Tour information has been sent out to all the surrounding public schools and colleges. Several of the colleges have replied very favorably, especially President Selke of St. Cloud Teachers College. From the fine interest that has been shown, the committee feels that at the last minute there will be a premium on reservations. The personnel of the group to date consists mainly of college students and recent alumni.

Through the aid of Representative Andresen the group has obtained permission to visit the sessions of both the House and Senate and view the portions of the White House which are not ordinarily open to the public. Said Mr. Andresen in his letter, "I am pleased to learn that a large party from Winona will visit New York and Washington in June . . . I would like to meet the group . . . and if you will get in touch with me upon your arrival we can surely get together."

The student body and faculty has been asked to give the committee the names of any people who might be interested in the tour.

Ida Krehm Gives Final Community Concert

Ida Krehm, brilliant young pianist, appeared Friday, April 21, in the last feature of the Community Concert program this season.

The audience was delighted with her beauty of tone and skillful technique.

Numbers which were especially enjoyed were the brilliant Sonata, a Major by Scarlatti; Little Elf, which was dedicated to Miss Krehm by Rudolph Ganz; and El Vito, a Spanish dance number by Infante.

New Library To Open May 1

The new college library will open for use on Monday, May 1.

The main reading room is equipped with indirect lighting, ten new reading tables in addition to the ones formerly used, new desks, and ample shelf space. The main desk is centrally located in front of the book stack section. Bound periodicals are shelved about the main room; current periodicals are kept at the desk.

To the left, off the main room, is the librarians' office; to the right, the reserve book room. Above these rooms are located rooms for unbound periodicals and for the curriculum laboratory respectively.

The children's room downstairs is not only provided with tables and chairs of suitable size, but also with relatively low book stacks and a low hand rail near the steps.

Other rooms on the ground floor are a classroom which will be used during the summer session and may be used if a library course or courses are added to the curriculum, a documentary room, and several smaller rooms for library material.

Mendelssohn To Give Concert May 5

The Mendelssohn Club will give its annual concert, Friday evening, May 5. Guest artist for the concert will be Ramona Gerhardt, well known organist and pianist for WCCO. This will be Miss Gerhardt's third appearance in concerts at the college with this group.

This year for the first time the members of the club will wear identical formals in various pastel shades.

P. Loughrey, Pres. Alumni Association Stresses Grads' Responsibility

"Alumni of a college should be a standing army—the nucleus of defense when there is a need or danger," Mr. Peter Loughrey, president of the Alumni Association said in a talk to the graduating classes on Tuesday. "The alumni are more responsible for public sentiment and support than anyone else," he continued. Of three thousand Winona alumni only two hundred fourteen are life members of the society.

The power of the University in this state is largely the result of its well organized alumni. A large number of the legislators, controllers of state funds, are alumni of the University.

He pointed out that in the past few years, the alumni of Winona have neglected opportunities for great service to their alma mater. The struggle to secure the new library building was mainly a one

Spring Play Given April 28 and 29

"Chantecler" Presented By Cast of 33

Rostand's "Chantecler," a play which represents artistic and dramatic values as well as a keen insight into human nature, will be presented this evening and tomorrow afternoon at the college.

The production is sponsored by the entire college assisted by the Wenonah Players under the direction of Dr. Lynch.

The story centers about Chantecler, a barnyard cock who believes that his crowing makes the sun rise. He is portrayed by Caryl Priestersbach, Pine Island. He loves the beautiful pheasant hen, portrayed by Kathryn Haas, St. Paul. These two fowls exhibit the human traits of conceit, affection, pique, jealousy, devotion to duty, and sacrifice even to death.

Other characters of the play are: the saucy blackbird, Oscar Joneson, Redwood Falls; the philosophizing dog, Patou, Glenn Johnson, Stockton; the fussy guineahen, Avis Nordquist, Montevideo; and the arrogant peacock, Charles Balcer, McGregor, Iowa. The entire cast consists of thirty-three characters.

Costumes are suggestive of the animals depicted and the scenery has been constructed to the scale of these fowls.

Invitations have been extended to those high schools which have participated in various speech events, such as the interpretative reading and one-act play contests, sponsored by the Wenonah Players. Tickets are being sold by members of the Die-No-Mo and W Clubs. Proceeds are to be used in buying gold basketballs for this year's championship team.

Apollo Club Ends Successful Season

The Apollo Club successfully completed its ninth annual tour on April 18, and gave its final concert of the season at the college on Wednesday, April 26.

Under the direction of Mr. Andrew H. Langum, Rochester, the club toured southwestern and central Minnesota, giving thirteen concerts in all. Mr. Harlem Moen was violin soloist, and Miss Margaret Brightman, accompanist.

The tour included concerts at Sherburne, Jackson, Pipestone, Balaton, Russell, Redwood Falls, Montevideo, Olivia, Milan, Brainerd, Motley, Staple, Verndale, and Waite Park. At Pipestone the chorus visited an Indian shrine whose soil is in its primeval state.

Twenty-one people made the tour this year. Mrs. Harry Jackson accompanied the group as a companion to Miss Brightman.

Our Responsibility In Japanese Aggression

The Japanese war against China is described to us as being a new type of war. People who know the Chinese situation today tell us that the Japanese are not fighting Chinese military bases, nor Chinese armies, nor the Chinese navy. The Japanese soldier is instructed by his government to destroy the Chinese home, Chinese women and children, and Chinese schools. This is not without reason for the Japanese military government knows that by striking at and destroying these institutions he will destroy the strength of China. Having once done so, Japan will reduce working wages and conditions to the coolie status throughout China, use China as a sweat shop, and produce manufactured goods more cheaply than any other country in the world.

The Japanese military machine within the last twenty years has built from rock bottom a world trade that makes her financially able to support herself, and regardless of a total lack of natural resources for military equipment, outfit herself to go into China and practically wipe out one of the oldest civilizations in the world.

Our Trade With Japan

Let us see just what type of trade Japan is carrying on with us. In her very modern factories Japan produces a motley conglomeration of articles including everything from American flags to nut cups, from sun glasses to zippers, and from combs to table cloths. Most of these articles are known to the American buyer, as they must be marked "Made in Japan." Less easy to detect are the articles containing silk. These include silk hose, silk underwear, silk dresses, and silk neckties. These articles are of greater importance in Japanese trade than the first group named, as silk accounts for more than three fifths of Japan's exports to the United States. For these trinkets which crowd our dime stores, and for the silk stockings which break at the bending of a knee the United States is returning some of her most valuable natural resources — iron, oil, and fuel. We supply roughly half of the machinery and engines needed for Japan's munitions production — three-fifths of her iron and oil, and nine-tenths of her military trucks and copper. Our exports of scrap iron alone came to 3,286,669 gross tons — 45 per cent of our total world export of this commodity. It is a conservative estimate that over $300,000,000 worth of essential war materials went from the United States to Japan during the last two years. This comprises about 54.4% of her total war need.

U. S. Support Necessary to Japan

The appalling fact is that if we did not provide these materials, no other nation could or would. Italy and Germany could not supply them. France and Russia would not because they have refused all support so far. Great Britain, which furnishes 17.5% of Japan's war materials would not dare continue exporting to her if we refuse. The British public would not tolerate it. Clearly the blame for Japan's aggression, the blame for the destruction of Chinese independence is OURS.

Let Us Boycott Japan

One of the usual arguments against a boycott of Japanese goods is that it will injure United States industry. This is true in respect to iron and oil but this loss would not begin to compare with that we have already experienced in cotton and in wood pulp. You all know the condition of our South. We don't like to think of it very much, so we listen to it being discussed in our history classes and then promptly forget it. However that doesn't help the South. A boycott on silk would!

Many people talk about a boycott's being a war time measure, and that by employing one we are overstepping our own neutrality act. These people are misled if they believe that the United States is neutral now. How can we be termed neutral and yet supply one of the countries with 54.4% of her material to carry on the war?

Open Forum Student Suggests Fewer Constants

Author's Note: This article is the outgrowth not of personal discontents or grudges, but of observation, thought, and study.

Any growing institution must manifest certain accommodating changes if the effectiveness of that institution is not to be inhibited. Certain changes must be made in our present curriculum if educational progress is to be promoted. Our curriculum has too many constants, and many of them are unnecessary to general scholarship. Those constants to which undue emphasis has been ascribed must be cut.

The opposition to the reduction of the number of constants cries that all of the constants are necessary to the general scholarship and culture of the student. Perhaps the opposition is unaware of the content of the curriculum. It will be granted that the student should be able to stand on his head before he is allowed to graduate, but not that he should be compelled to take Introduction to Physical Education 210 in order to teach others to stand on their heads. Why should this course be required of students of secondary education?

Why must geography be required of students in secondary education? When one attempts to transfer his geography credit to the University, the registrar laughs in his face. Now the student elects two out of the three so-called appreciation courses, but why not facilitate greater selectivity by allowing him to substitute in their stead a year of college French?

Some fine changes have been made recently in the curriculum, but it needs still more trimming. Yet there are those who would introduce even more constants into the curriculum. These faculty members fear that students will not take their courses unless they are required. Some instructors believe so thoroughly in their own fields of work that, without any personal selfishness, they tend to overemphasize their department. The insertion of Mathematics 209 and Introduction to Physical Education 210 as constants may be attributed to such convictions.

The opponents of the above proposed changes undoubtedly possess one or more of the following attitudes which predispose them to oppose proposals for constructive educational change: (1) General fear of change, (2) Undue conservatism, (3) Inertia of conviction, (4) Absolutism, (5) Sense of institutional stability, (6) Fear of personal disadvantage, (7) Departmental jealousy, (8) Fear of opposing the opponents of change.

Whereas change in itself does not constitute progress, change is essential to progress. Just as society itself is in constant change, so are its wants constantly changing. If the movement for change is not to lag far behind the want and need of change, action must be taken soon.

Mendelssohn Girls Make Concert Trips

With the ringing of thirty-two alarm clocks to the accompaniment of thirty-two yawns, thirty-two sleepy but excited Mendelssohn girls dragged themselves wearily out of bed at four-thirty on the morning of April 18.

After dressing hurriedly and bolting a steaming cup of coffee, they splashed through the rain and mud with hats askew and arms full of cumbersome packages and suitcases to the waiting bus.

At 5:45 the bus, loaded beyond the point of comfort, pulled out of Winona headed for St. Paul. After a ride made up of naps interspersed with lunches and vocalizing, they arrived at the Washington High School at nine o'clock. The thirty-two descended on the building en masse and completely took over the gymnasium, spreading their bundles everywhere.

As the school has two assemblies the club had arranged to give two programs. The first began at 9:45, the second followed after a short period of resting and lemon sucking. When the two programs were finished and robes were packed, the girls once again climbed into the bus, this time to go to the St. Paul Hotel for the third concert of the day, and, incidentally for the lunch of which they were so badly in need. When the concert for the St. Paul Rotary Club, the last of the day, was finished, the girls were given a half hour in which to do as much shopping as the weather permitted. After this interval they gathered at the bus (most of them a little early in hopes of getting one of the better seats). When all were settled and all of the missing bags were found — everything except the purse one of the girls left at Washington High School (perhaps she wanted to go back), the bus started and the second trip made by the Mendelssohn Club this year ended. The first trip was to Holmen, Wisconsin on Tuesday evening, April 11.

The scheduled concerts include: April 20 — Calcedonia; April 22 — St. Mary's College; April 24 — Waseca; April 24 — Owatonna and Dodge Center; April 27 — Red Wing; May 4 — St. Martin's School, Winona; May 5 — Home Concert, Somsen Hall; and May 14 — Minneapolis.

If You Don't Know The Answer, Try This

I wonder at the thoughtlessness of somebody and everybody in not having discussed the serious problem of how to answer a question to which you don't know the answer. We are confronted with it daily, and nightly the prospect of such a question almost ruins the show for us. Upperclassmen insist that they know it all so don't have the problem, and every one else whom one asks ingorantly believes the thing to do is to say, "I don't know." Such an attitude is ridiculous. Where's your ingenuity?

Now here are some methods tested and approved by Winona State Teachers College. They vary, of course, with the teacher, the subject matter, and how close it is to the end of the period.

You might counter with another question. For instance, if you are asked, "What are Japan's ultimate purposes in invading China?", you might say, "Don't you think lisle stockings are attractive?"

Then there is the "friendly neighbor" method. Naturally, if we can't avoid being in class with someone smart, we try to sit next to him, anyhow. Then in case you should be expected to know something, you cast an imploring and helpless look at the person next to you (it helps if your neighbor is of the opposite sex), and he or she will whisper the answer to you.

An excellent method is the "book" method. Keep your text on your desk. However, when you are called upon to discuss a topic, don't start frantically turning pages. Calmly look up the topic in the index, find the correct page, read everything given on the question, and recite. If you think you have time, it is advisable to outline your recitation first. This method almost invariably yields an A grade.

However, one's procedure must always be modeled to fit the situation. However, if your ingenuity fails you, and none of the suggested plans seems advisable, you can always get a nosebleed and leave the room.

Moving To The New Library

Miss Engstrom with the help of Stanley Wehrenberg and Norman Fjetland loaded the boxes used in transferring books from the old library to the new building.

The library was closed from April 13 to May 1 while NYA students and volunteers among college men transferred books across the street in these wooden boxes mounted on wheel-barrows.

Alumni Notes

William Thompson, '36, is to be principal of the junior high school of Ryderwood, Washington. In 1937-38 Mr. Thompson received his master's degree from the University of Seattle and plans to take work there next year toward his doctorate.

The concert presented by the Winona Choral Club under the direction of Mr. Walter Grimm on April 18 was enjoyed by a large audience. Mrs. Wm. Burgess and Mrs. C. B. Burgess of La Crosse played several piano duets. The incidental solos of Mrs. Baumgartner were well received.

The chorus has been complimented for its balance and harmony. The Mason Music Club of the college sponsored the concert.

W.H.S. Band Gives Concert at Chapel

The Winona High School Band gave a concert in chapel on Monday, April 17. The band, under the direction of Harold Edstrom, a former student of the college, played, among other selections, the numbers to be used at the district music contest at Lake City, April 22. The concert closed with W. H. S.'s old fight song dedicated to Winona students now at the college.

CONCERNING WINONA ALUMNI ATHLETES

Information Secured on Former Athletes

Through the cooperation of the Athletic Department and the Winonan, the sports editor has secured information on outstanding athletes who have graduated from this college. To include all athletes would be impossible, but it is hoped that in the future we may write about others.

In the past these men have sent prospective students to this college, and for this reason we acknowledge them. It is hoped that the alumni will continue to support their alma mater in this as well as in other ways.

It has been mainly through the efforts of these graduates that we have at present such a fine group of athletes.

Lyle Arns, class of '38, perhaps the most outstanding all-round athlete of the college, won his letters in football and basketball for four years, track one year, and baseball two years. He won all-conference honors in both basketball and football, and placed in the high hurdles of the state track meet in 1936. He is coaching at West Concord, Minnesota, this year.

Robert Parker, class of '38, an outstanding center on the basketball team and a dependable tackle on the football team, is now coaching at Campbell, Minnesota.

Berger Ostmo was another member of the 1937-38 championship basketball team. His floor play and scoring ability contributed largely to the success of the team. He is basketball coach at Balaton, Minnesota. It is rumored that in June he will marry Margaret Buhler, class of 1936.

Loren Jorris, class of '38, was an outstanding dashman of the college for three years, and an important half-back on the football squad. He was a member of the relay team that set a new conference record. In 1937, he married Lois Klindworth, also a Winona graduate, and is now teaching in Cleveland, Minnesota.

In 1936 his basketball team won the district championship and the "Little Seven" title. He is married and has a 2-year old son. He interested Fred and Vic Gislason, Arthur Andrejek, and Bill Kaczowski in coming to Winona.

Peds Lose First Ball Game to La Crosse

After a shaky start that allowed the La Crosse stickers to collect 9 runs in the first two frames, the Winona baseball nine settled down and made a good ball game out of a 13-7 defeat. The game was one of the many contests that was played in celebration of baseball's 100 anniversary, and was the opening game for Coach Pawelek's nine.

Arns started hurling for Winona, but after allowing 5 hits in two innings, retired in favor of Jozwiak. John pitched very good ball from the third inning on allowing 6 hits in the last seven innings. Campbell pitched the entire contest for La Crosse allowing 10 hits, and being backed up by errorless fielding by his teammates.

Ralph Spencer led the Winona hitters with a triple and two singles, followed by Eddie Spencer and Bill Kaczowski who both connected for home runs and singles. Zingler of La Crosse took top hitting honors for the day smashing out two circuit blows and a single.

Credit should go to the freshmen that played their initial game. Brandt, catcher; Flynn, 3rd sacker; Wood, 2nd base; R. Johnson and Baesler, outfielders, all showed promise of developing with the veterans into a good team.

A senior was having difficulty reading a letter. Seeing Mr. MacDonald, he asked him the meaning of the word dich, part of a German phrase in the letter. The dean in turn asked for the first word in the phrase. Ich — and the second? Liebe Why of course — I love you — hmm — . It's coming to a pretty pass when our senior boys have to go to the Dean of Men to have their love-notes translated.

Tennis Team Plays Opener Against La Crosse Today

The first tennis match will be played with La Crosse today. With a record of five successive state championships, broken only by last year's defeat, the tennis team under Coach Charles Fisk has for the past two weeks been preparing for this year's matches.

Harry Johnson will play the No. 1 position, Elton Schoenrock, No. 2, Clifford Whitlock, No. 3, and Hugo Kochendoerfer, No. 4. The fifth and sixth places will be filled by two of the following: Adolph Bremer, Dick Rosenow, John Carlson, Eddie Siebold, Romaine Foss and Tim Anderson.

As yet no other definite dates have been set. Matches will be arranged with St. Mary's, Eau Claire, and Mankato. The team will also participate in the State meet at St. Cloud, May 26.

Ten Trackmen Enter Initial Meet at Decorah, Iowa

A small squad of ten trackmen under Coach Galligan participated in the initial track meet of the season when Luther College was host to Upper Iowa University and Winona Teachers College at Decorah, Iowa, April 22.

Luther came out on top, winning almost all the first places, and gaining a total of 56 points to Upper Iowa University's 36 and Winona's 28. Les Ottman took a first in the high jump at 5 feet 9 inches and Dalt Rich and Merv Wolverton tied with Tate of U.I.U. for first in the pole vault at 10 feet 6 inches. Most promising were the performances of Bob Steffes in the mile and half mile in which he won seconds. Grudem took third in the two mile run. Kalbrenner and Rich finished second and third in the low hurdles. Schmidt ran third in the 440. Davidson placed second in the 220 and ran a fast fourth in the 100 to show promise of a good season in the dashes.

Captain Stu Farmer was far off form but squeezed in a third in each the shot and discus. Though fourths didn't count, Wolverton placed there in the shot and Ottman in the broadjump.

recognition in 1935. He has been coaching successfully at Ivanhoe.

Pete Deanovic received his two-year certificate in 1929 and later worked toward his degree at the University of Minnesota. While here, he was outstanding in football and played on the championship basketball team in 1929. He has been coaching at Columbia Heights since 1929 and has entered one team in the state basketball tournament. His influence brought the Spencer brothers and Berger Ostmo to Winona. Incidentally "Pete the Greek" on Rollie Johnson's sports review was none other than Deanovic.

Records Threatened; None Broken

As the name implies, the novice meet is held for freshmen and non-lettermen, and its purpose is to discover any talent which the newcomers may have and to develop interest in the sport.

As is usual much promising talent was revealed among the newcomers; and although no novice records were broken, there were so many records threatened that one cannot but look at the coming seasons with considerable optimism.
